My dear friend recently got engaged. I would like to have a special dinner party for a few of the couple's friends and their parents to celebrate. I am seeking creative suggestions for decorations, menu and games that could make the party extra special for my guests.

Consider setting up the theme based on their first date. You would need to get the couple's input to get started; however, I am sure they would be willing to do so. It could be that they went to the theatre for example. In which case you could purchase posters of the play and ask guests to dress as if they were going to the theatre.

I attended an engagement party in which everyone was asked to wear something symbolizing "love." One person came as an apple, another as cupid and I pinned maple leaves all over a black body suit and atop my head (all love symbols).

The hostess planned her menu based on foods associated or symbolizing love, comfort and passion. She explained the meaning as each course was served. It was a learning experience and quite memorable.:kiss:

Find out where their dream honeymoon location is then make that your theme. This way if the couple cannot afford their location, you have fulfilled a dream.
